

4. I would say that ~175 elements is the threshold, as the bubble sort graph begins to increase dramatically in time at that point. This means that the bubble sort is getting too many elements in the arrays which adds to the time and the complexity of this sorting algorithm. Quick sort has a time increase, but still stays well below the time taken by bubble sort.